What is Payroll Giving?

Payroll Giving, also known as Give as You Earn, is an easy and efficient way to give to the charities you care about from your Gross Pay.

Donations are taken from an employees pay after National Insurance contributions are removed but before Income Tax is calculated and deducted. This means that if you give £20 a month as a standard rate taxpayer, it will only cost you £16, for a high-rate taxpayer it would only cost £12.

Payroll Giving is very easy to set up through your payroll department and will automatically stop if you change jobs.

How does payroll giving help the Home?

Our mission is to find loving homes, protect loving homes and run a loving Home for the people and pets who need us.

This means we give everything possible to keep pets where they belong and prevent them from coming through our doors in the first place. And when they do come to us, we give everything we can to help them get healthy, strong and into loving new homes, where they belong.

It costs around £3 million a year to run Edinburgh Dog and Cat Home we receive no government funding, relying almost entirely on the generosity of donations from the public.

Supporting our work in a regular way like through Payroll Giving allows us to plan for the future and focus on providing the best possible care and support for the people and animals who need us.

How your donation could help

£10
Could help us vaccinate a cat

£25
Could help feed
a dog in our care for a full month

£100
Could help towards filling our foodbank van with fuel

For employers: how does it work?

1. Sign up with a PGA (Payroll Giving Agency)

A PGA is an organisation that facilitates the secure transition of funds from your employee's gross wages to their nominated charity's bank account. You must sign up with a PGA to participate in Payroll Giving. You can view a list of HMRC-approved PGAs here.

2. Encourage employees to sign up

Let your employees know that they can now support their chosen charity through Payroll Giving and encourage them to complete the sign-up form shared by your PGA and send them to your Payroll Department.

3. Let the donations begin!

Your Payroll Department will send the payments and forms to the PGA each month who will pay the charity directly on your employees' behalf.

For employees: how do you sign up?

Signing up to Payroll Giving couldn't be easier!

Simply complete a sign-up form provided by your Payroll Department and make your favourite charity's day!

Keep an eye on your next payslip to make sure your gift has been processed correctly and rest easy knowing that you're supporting a great cause with no hassle.

This kind of regular giving helps us to plan for the future and focus on providing the best possible care and support for the animals and people who need us.
